The Old Ironsides Stereo Connection

Not too far from the site of the 1984 NSA Convention, the historic U.S. ship The Constitution is berthed at Boston harbor. That the ship still exists is due in large part to Oliver Wendell Holmes. When he learned in 1828 that the navy was going to scrap The Constitution, he wrote the famous poem "Old Ironsides" which spurred a fund raising drive to save the ship. His development of the Holmes stereoscope came several years later, but it made possible the wide distribution of views like this—Keystone's No. 6165T of The Constitution.
