Matthew J. Rebholz

1929–2001

Longtime NSA member Matthew J. Rebholz died April 18, 2001, in Laughlin, Nevada. He had worked in Lockheed's Santa Clara, California, advanced aerospace materials program for several years. He also worked on the Agena program with NASA and taught a course in advanced materials in the civil engineering department of UC Santa Clara. Besides being an avid stereo photographer, he was a life-long student of history, astronomy and geology, and traveled almost continually. He was in charge of Dealer Relationships at the 1982 NSA convention in San Jose, California. Matthew moved to Wickenburg, Arizona, in 1997, and eventually to Sun City West. Survivors include his brothers Pete Rebholz of Sun City, AZ and John Rebholz of Reading, OH; his sister Betty Jane Campbell of Seattle, Washington; his children Kristine Uhlman of Corvallis, OR, Mark Rebholz of Aguila, AZ, Martin Rebholz of Clute, TX, and Susan Parkman of Seattle, WA.

Dr. Carroll Bell

1929–2001

Dr. Carroll Bell, long-time stereo collector and antique dealer of College Station, Texas died April 30, 2001 at age 72. He was a retired Air Force colonel who earned his doctorate in education at Texas A&M University, and had taught in several area schools and universities. He operated a large antique shop and regularly exhibited at antique shows in the southwest. He had a fine collection of views of local interest and was well-known for his willingness to talk with and educate novice collectors. For many years he was the director of the south-central region of NSA, and served as registrar of the 1991 NSA convention in San Antonio, Texas. An expert on antique clocks and a gifted repairman, he had been president of the area Guild of Clock Makers. He is survived by his wife Mary Ellen Bell.
